Japanese Use Poison Gas Against Chinese

CHUNGKING, March 22.—The Japanese have used poison gas twice against Chinese troops during the fighting south of the Yangtze river in Hupeh province, a Chinese war communiqué charged tonight.

The communiqué from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's headquarters gave this version of the gas attacks.
On the morning of March 11 and the evening of March 13, a contingent of our forces counterattacked the enemy at Miao-shih. The retreating Japanese resorted to gas attacks. More than 100 Chinese officers and men were affected, suffering skin blisters, sore throat, vomiting, suffocation and stomach pains. Those seriously affected killed.

Use of these tactics by the enemy to camouflage their defeat has been reported on many previous occasions.
Although in some instances the Japanese have been charged with fighting during the last two weeks in the rice-growing section of China along the Yangtze.

The communiqué reported fighting was still in progress in the suburbs of Huaiyang and the sector southwest of Shihabow. Enemy troops from Chuchikow with air support were reported to have driven back and the Japanese were forced to withdraw toward the river with the Chinese in pursuit.

Severe fighting was reported to have broken out north of Kungang, which is 25 miles south of Shai on the road to Changteh.

MOSCOW, March 22.—Russian forces on the central front captured the important railroad junction of Duryovo, only 35 miles northeast of Smolensk, today while their comrades to the south smashed repeated attempts by fresh Axis armies to force the Upper Donets river.

The Soviet high command said that the Germans were drawing increasing numbers of troops from their fronts and throwing them into the battle of the Donets basin "straight from the march."

Scores of tanks and thousands of dead littered the southern bank of the Donets before German, mute testimony to the German determination to win.

Edmonton Army Is Advancing Along Six-Mile Front

Outlines Post-War Aims Churchill Warns 2 More Years May Be Needed to Crush Hitler Into Defeat

By JOHN COLBURN
LONDON, March 22 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill warned the British people last night in a sober but confident speech that it might take two more years to crush Hitler "and his powers of evil into death, dust and ashes," and then in a dramatic closing announced that the British 8th Army has opened its awaited offensive in Tunisia.

Mr. Churchill did not expound on the Tunisian announcement, departing from his prepared text, he said simply that he had just received a message from Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery that the 8th Army was "on the move," and that Gen. Montgomery was "satisfied with the progress."

In a war report by turns grave and optimistic, Mr. Churchill declared that after Hitler is beaten the Allies will turn immediately to "punish the greedy, cruel empire of Rome." He proposed post-war councils of the United Nations to ensure peace, and sketched a hopeful picture of social and economic advancements for Britons in the years of peace.

Press Reaction New Democracy Is Envisioned By Churchill

LONDON, March 22 (CP)—The London Daily Mail said editorially today that Prime Minister Churchill's speech last night was "by far the most important he has delivered," and termed it "a real charter for the post-war future."

"The world was shown the structure of a brand new social order to be realized within the time limit of a few years' plan," the Daily Mail said.

Diplomatic observers commented that in a sense Mr. Churchill had pictured a new democracy for the new world—a coming democracy without idle persons either at the top or the bottom, with equality of opinion and of power.

"It was a speech which will cause lively discussions both here and in the rest of the allied countries for a long time to come," one declared.

London awaited particularly the reaction from Washington and Moscow. Mr. Churchill's projected council of Europe and later a council of Asia. As for the home front, it was agreed that much and that he said regarding reforms could hardly fail to appeal to Conservatives and Liberals alike.

The London Times said Mr. Churchill was "in full command of those who had considered the time ripe for a broad statement on post-war social policy."

GRAVE DISAPPOINTMENT
"It will be a grave disappointment to the people of this country if no forecast of forthcoming reforms can be offered while the war lasts," said the Times. "To breed the efforts of the government and people to a realization of new social and economic life, the government will not be able to divert men and funds from the supreme effort of winning the war."

The Telegraph, however, said that Churchill's speech was a temptation in Churchill's phrase to "take your eye off the ball" must be rejected.

The Daily Mail and Daily Express also praised Churchill's speech and stressed that "beating Germany is the first task," while the Herald and others gave many points on which we should like more detailed indication of his attitude.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., March 22 (AP)—Clarence P. Seabiel, 34, Bell Aircraft Corporation test pilot, was killed yesterday when he bailed out of a plane too late for his parachute to open.

Paramaribo Arrives

PARAMARIBO, Dutch Guiana, March 22 (AP)—Rene Yeber, former governor of French Guiana, arrived here Saturday as the fifth French official to enter Dutch Guiana since the German attack on the Allied cause.

Admonishes Talk of Quick Victory

Mr. Churchill admonished those who "jumped to the conclusion that the war will soon be over" because of the recent war front developments, and urged Britons "to concentrate more zealously upon the war effort and if possible not to take your eye off the ball even for a moment."

Devoing much of his address to domestic problems, the Prime Minister sketched a broad four-year program for erecting a lifetime security structure for Britons. He declared:

"You must rank me and my colleagues as strong partisans of national compulsory insurance for all classes, for all purposes from the cradle to the grave."

"We cannot have a band of drones in our midst whether they come from ancient aristocracy or modern plutocracy or the ordinary type of poor crawler," Mr. Churchill said, and declared:

"I look forward to a Britain so big that she will need to draw her leaders from every type of school and wearing every kind of tie. Tradition may play its part but broader systems must now rule."

Envisioning possible post-war councils of European and Asiatic governments, Mr. Churchill voiced hope for an

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, March 22
The British Eighth Army, advancing along a six-mile front against stiff enemy opposition, has taken all of its preliminary objectives in the early stages of an all-out offensive to drive the Axis from Tunisia, front reports said late today.

Northwest of the March 19th positions where the Eighth Army was on the march, two columns of American troops were driving wedges into Marshal Erwin Rommel's flank. One column was racing toward the batteries at Gabes and had captured four German, eight miles east of El Gattat. The other column, after seizing Seneel, was striking toward Maknassy and the big Axis reinforcement base of Maa.

(The British radio, quoting late reports from Tunisia, said the Americans were "within sight of Maknassy.")

Today's Sport Prade

—By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, March 22.—Today follows last Friday night too closely for the pugilistic historians to digest the significance of Sammy Angott's upset victory over unbeaten Willie Pep. But the significance is there—a good big champion can beat a good little champion.

That's the major premise, but the minor premise is that professional boxing is not an Eastern parlor game in which styles are all important. Harry Greb proved this some 20 years ago when he came fighting out of the same Pittsburgh area that furnished Angott.

Remember how the wise guy is said that Harry Greb couldn't fight because he had no style? Well, Windmill Greb kept on ticking midweights, light heavies and even heavyweights, and today the late Harry Greb is acknowledged to be one of the greatest fighters ever to live.

ANGOTT NOT STYLISH
BECAUSE Greb fought like a bulldog—even when he had but one eye—he was not considered a stylist. He wasn't a pattern puncher. You couldn't say he was a shuffler or an up-and-down fighter or a hooter and wheeler. Greb just fought from any angle and in any style that he figured could win against any given opponent on any given night.

Angott is like that. For eight long years, the stylist—the purveyor of boxing—has been criticizing this black-haired, bullet-nosed Italian from Washington, Pa., for his lack of style. But Angott kept hammering on in windmill fashion until he was undisputed lightweight champion of the world by virtue of victories over Davey Day and Lew Jenkins.

Came last September, and Angott won a decision over Aldo Sisti on the cards. Against Sisti kept the champion's undisputed status, and he had no doubt that he had him during much of his career.

NEW YORK, March 22.—(BUP)—The St. Louis Cardinals have lost three, and probably will lose more of the key performers in the 1942 world series victory over the New York Yankees, but they still will be the team to beat when the National League pennant race begins April 21.

What To Do

Should guests join in family discussions?

Answer—If you want to be invited back, don't eject your opinions into family matters. Pretend you don't hear these family discussions because to be drawn into them is unpleasant.

Year hosts may try to get you opinion about the eighteen year old daughter coming home at 11 a.m.—but if you are clever you will keep your opinion to yourself.

Edmonton's Reserve Army Units Needs You—Enlist Now

Had Your Exercise Today?

Here is just another method of putting members of the Reserve Army in condition. But, of course, you men from behind your desks are not expected to follow the leader in training of this nature. Indeed, the Reserve Army is very strict about what a man can do and can't do and no man is allowed to take a chance on over exertion.

Every Man Needed

Canada's Reserve Army Given Vital Role for Defence of Dominion

No longer are members of the Reserve Army "Saturday Night" Soldiers. In the past, members of the general public were wont to scoff at the civilians serving in the Reserve but now all is changed. With a possibility of enemy attack on our coast—with a necessity for a strong, well-drilled force for home defence—the Canadian Reserve Army has become a vital factor in the Dominion's war picture.

If an attack is made on Canada's west coast every man will be needed and each night's training in the Reserve will help in making each man and his unit as a whole, better prepared to deal with the enemy.

Ample equipment is now on hand for training of Reserve units in M.D. No. 12. Rifles, machine guns, anti-tank rifles and mortars are available as well as artillery pieces, including 25-pounders at Calgary and Edmonton. In addition the Reserve Brigade group has approximately 60 vehicles including Bren Gun carriers, Irpa, eight-hundredweight and 15-hp. dreadnought lorries, tow-trail lorries and motorcycles.

Where 2,000 additional Alberta men not eligible for Active Service join the Reserve Army, the 41st Reserve Brigade will be at full strength in M.D. 12.

The Brigade Headquarters is at Calgary and the staff is composed of Col. E. R. Knight, V.D., brigade commander, Major W. C. Roberts, Edmonton, and Capt. A. E. Howard, staff captain.

Ordinance Workshop at Drumheller and the 1st (H) Armored Division Ordnance Workshop at Edmonton.

One detachment of spare parts personnel supplied by No. 3 Division Ordnance Workshop at Calgary.

Officers commanding the various Edmonton units of the Brigade are:

24th (R) Field Battery, R.C.A.—Lt. Col. R. W. Hale, M.C.

2nd (R) Bn. Edmonton Regiment—Lt. Col. H. E. Pearson, M.C.

No. 1 (R) Armored Div. Ordnance Workshop, R.C.O.C.—Capt. G. Gunnell.

4th (R) Armored Div. Troops Coy, R.C.A.S.C.—Capt. T. W. Copland, M.C.

4th (R) Cavalry Clearing Staff, R.C.A.C.—Major E. R. Knight, V.D., and was the last Adjutant of that unit in France.

He was connected with the permanent active militia from his return from overseas until 1922 when he transferred to the Reserve of Officers. At the time of the transfer he was commanding the 2nd Infantry Brigade with the rank of Colonel. Previous to that he was Officer Commanding the Calgary Brigade.

In January 1940, Col. Knight went on Active service as a Company Commander and later as 2nd

Veteran Officers Responsible For Training of Reserve Army

Three veteran officers, all of whom served overseas in the First Great War, are responsible for the administration and training of the Reserve Army in Military District No. 12.

They are Col. E. R. Knight, V.D., Officer Commanding the 41st Reserve Brigade Group, Major W. C. Roberts, Brigade Major, and Capt. A. E. Howard, Staff Captain.

Col. E. R. Knight served in the First Great War with the 4th Battalion and was the last Adjutant of that unit in France.

He was connected with the permanent active militia from his return from overseas until 1922 when he transferred to the Reserve of Officers. At the time of the transfer he was commanding the 2nd Infantry Brigade with the rank of Colonel. Previous to that he was Officer Commanding the Calgary Brigade.

In January 1940, Col. Knight went on Active service as a Company Commander and later as 2nd in command of the training centre at Currie Barracks in Calgary. He was in that position until July, 1940 when he took a senior officers course at the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., and on his return was placed in command of the C.I. (B) T.C. at Canmore where he organized the staff and opened the centre, remaining until January, 1941 when he was transferred to Calgary as officer commanding.

So What!

THE RESERVE ARMY IS FULL OF MEN WHO ARE IN THE SAME POSITION!

Doctors, lawyers, merchants, chiefs ... they are all well represented in Alberta's Reserve Army.
